

QUEEN'S BANDS

THE PLAID POST

New year, same band- but we wouldn't have it any other way! Get ready for what we have in store for the coming months.

Happy New Year's!

WELCOME TO 2025!

Written by Kaelan Rankin, Edited by Serena James

Eng versus Comm is a tale as old as time, or at least as old as whenever that rivalry started, who's to say? Nevertheless, this November the faculties for another year in a row were able to set aside their differences to play some Sportsball for charity.

WHAT'S IN THIS MONTH'S ISSUE:

- Tri-colour Classic
- Brockville & Toronto SCP
- Semi-Formal & More!

As the foremost representatives of spirit at Queen's, we were honoured to star in the pre-show, bringing down the house and setting the tone for an unfortunate commerce victory (Go Eng!). With a final score of 54-46 Comm, and over $250,000 raised for the Canadian Cancer Society, the game was still a blast to watch and play, even if Comm won...Just kidding! We love all Queen's disciplines! :)

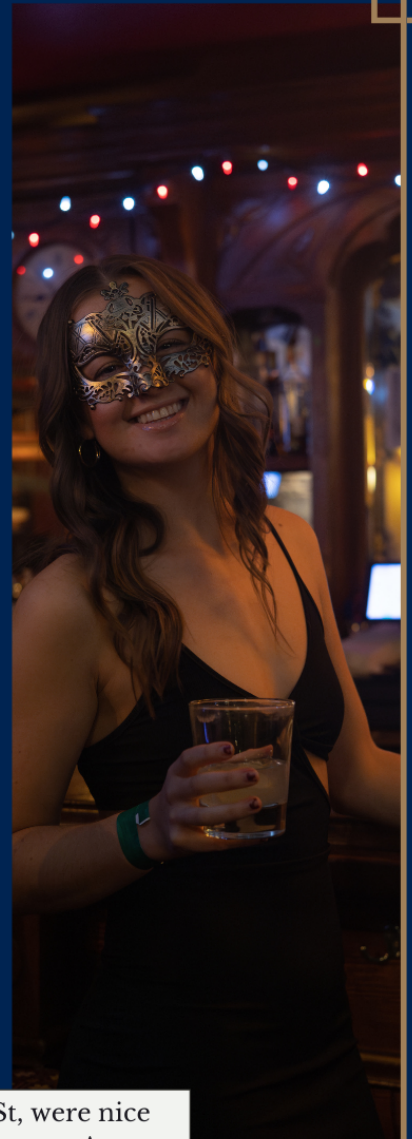

Toronto & Brockville Santa Claus Parades

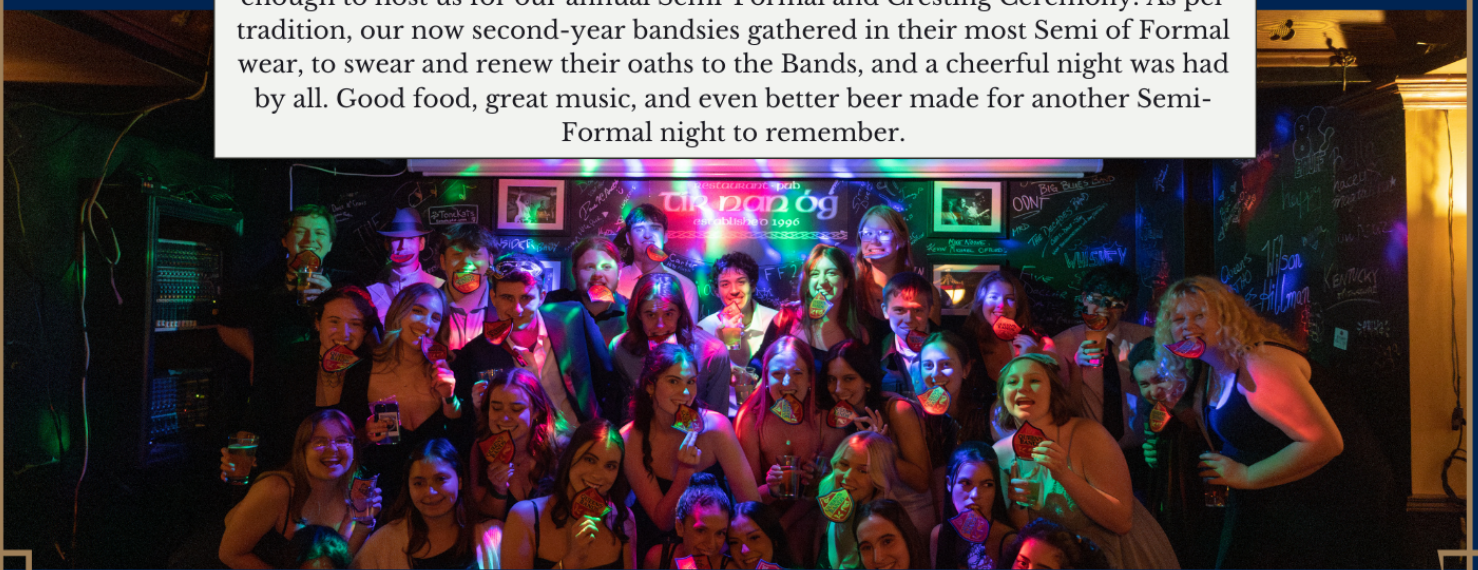

From Kingston to Brockville and Bloomfield to Toronto, the holidays have never shined brighter than the lights on our drums. This season, for the first time in over a decade the Bands were honoured to participate in the Toronto Santa Claus parade and notably marched at the front. And as per every year, we had an excellent time meeting and greeting folks from the Brockville Queen's Alumni Association. Especially Sarah Jane, the first-ever woman drummer in the Bands. You'll be happy to hear, that she's still got it!

Masquerade Semi-Formal

This year, our Irish friends at Tir-nan-og at Ontario and Market St, were nice enough to host us for our annual Semi-Formal and Cresting Ceremony. As per tradition, our now second-year bandsies gathered in their most Semi of Formal wear, to swear and renew their oaths to the Bands, and a cheerful night was had by all. Good food, great music, and even better beer made for another Semi-Formal night to remember.
